Seventeenth Street Mission's Rapid

Early next week the Seventeenth-Street Mission will celebrate its first anniversary. Committees and sub-committees are hard at work preparing for suitable exercises to mark the occasion.

The growth of the mission has been remarkable, and despite the warm weather of the past few months, the attendance has held up in a gratifying manner.

It will not be a great while now before ground is broken for the chapel which the mission proposes to build. A goodly

DEED OF ASSIGNMEN OF THE LEASE OF THE NORTH CAROLINA R. E.

The Railroad Gives Very Favorable Rates to the State Fair_Saloons Must Close at 11 o'Clock Says the Council.

RALEIGH, N. C., Sept. 4.—Special.—
The deed of assignment of the lease of the North Carolina railroad by the Southern to the New York Central Trust Company, was to cover the first consolidated morigage made in 184. The deed conveys the ninety-nine year lease of the North Carolina railroad with depots touses, shops, fixtures, buildings, engines, ars and franchises. The Southern will of course operate the road as heretofore. Judge D. M. Furches, of the Supreme fourt bench, has granted a rehearing in the Charlotte bond case.
C. T. Balley has been appointed jury commissioner for the Eastern District by Inited States Judge L. R. Purnell.
There is a case pending in the Supreme ourt that is of interest. The State under n act of the Legislature tried to collect axes on one-half of one per cent. of the ross carnings of the North Carolina rail-and. The railroad got out an injuncton restraining the State from cellecting the amount. Mr. C. A. Cook, of farrenton, attorney for the road, is here illecting some information.

How to Secure Something for Noths ing.

In many store windows throughout the city there will be seen a small placard announcing that Trading Stamps are supplied within. As a great many do not understand the meaning of these cards the Times will explain it for their benefit. It represents a novel and interesting business plan of which is this: Trading Stamps are issued to merchants or shop-keepers and a person making purchases, by asking for Trading Stamps, will receive one stamp for each and every ten cents represented in their purchase. In conjunction with this is issued a little book which contains the names of the merchants who have arranged with the company to handle the Stamps, and wherein the stamps are pasted until the hook is alled; when filled the possessor of the book may take it to their store and exchange it for his or her choice of a large variety of magnificent articles, such as quadruple plated silverware, books, pletures, clock lamps, furniture, bicycles, cameras, sewing machines, musical instruments, and a multitude of other valuable articles, useful and ornamental. The company has a number of agents out distributing these stamp books to house-keepers. Should they fail to leave one at your house, call at the store, SI cast Broad street, and get one. The company has operated its novel plan of business with success and credit in the United States, where they have fifty-seven stores. All premiums distributed by them are guaranteed to be of the best quality. Don't fail to pay their store a visit. Open every evening through September.

Nearly all property values are fickle.

The cholcest real estate to-day may be neglected real estate next year by a sudden deflection of the line of improvement. A profitable business this year may be a losing business next year. You can't tell. In speaking of this matter the other tell.

In speaking of this matter the other day, a Richmond man said:

"Elight years ago, I had a good business and a sing fortune. I was approached by a friend who was working up a building and loan association, and solicited to take stock. I finally subscribed for fifty-seven shares, but it was a side issue, and I attached little importance to the investment. I paid the assessments regularly, and as I had a good income, the payments were not irksome.

"But conditions changed. The panic came on; business was dull; real estate and other property depreciated, until I found myself in straits. My building and loan payments became liksome, but I saw that the stock was my main dependence, and I managed some way to come to the scratch every month. Finally I was forced to sell out my business at great sacrifice, and nearly all my property was swept saway. But I clung to the always able to borrow money on it, it served me many a good turn. It was full of pin holes, which the bankers had "Now that stock is fully paid up. It is worth on the books of the company 5,700, and it earns 8 per cent. a year, free from taxes. It was my salvation. If I had not taken it out, I would never have saved the money used in making the monthly payments, and when the crash came I should have been ruined.

"It is hardly necessary to say that I am a great believer in building and loan associations, and I regard the Bichmond associations as among the safest and best in the country. A man cannot make a mietake in buying shares in one or more of the Richmond associations,
